STATE DRY CRACK BREAKS

Wooden Piling Had Been Protested by Labor Men as Unsafe; 100 Feet Gives Way

One hundred feet of the cofferdam being built in connection with the construction of the Commonwealth's new drydock in South Boston collapsed during the night. As a result the Port Directors went before the Harbor and Lands Committee of the Governor's Council at the State House to explain who is to blame.

The collapse of the section of the cofferdam is the latest chapter in the history of the drydock.

Edward F. Mcweeney, of Lombard Williams issued a statement saying the collapse of the cofferdam was due to the uncertain nature of cofferdam work and that Holbrook, Cabot and Hollins, the contractors, were perfectly able and willing to restore the collapsed portion.

Others who appeared at the State House said the break was serious and only went to prove the soundness of the protest made last October against the granting of the contract. Joseph Gray, the third member of the Port Board, protested at the time against granting the contract for the cofferdam on what he termed the insufficient knowledge of conditions with which builders of the dam would have to struggle.

The section of the cofferdam which collapsed last night was made of wood. At the time of the protest in October the granting of the contract represented organized labor appeared at the State House and protested against a wooden cofferdam, saying that steel interlocking piling was in use. It was decided after a hearing that a wooden cofferdam was sufficient.

THE STATEMENT given out by Directors Mcweeney and Williams, a section of the South Boston cofferdam collapsed last night.

Arraigned on Charge of Murder and Locked Up Without Bail; Must Now Face Life Fight

Dr. Eldridge De L. Atwood, the young Woburn osteopath, was held without bail in the city court today for the August Grand Jury on a charge of murder in shooting Dr. Wilfred E. Harris, president of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, in Dr. Harris' office in the Hotel Westminster in Copley square last week Tuesday.

Dr. Harris, who received three bullets from Dr. Atwood's revolver, died late yesterday afternoon. He had been unconscious most of the time since he was brought to the City Hospital directly after the shooting.

Dr. Atwood, the police say, declared soon after his arrest that he shot Dr. Harris because the latter had betrayed him in the most promising public of his life.

WOMAN HELPFESS HEARS OF SLAYER

Woman Testifies that She Saw Marion Smith Embrace Phineas at Her Home in Hyannis

Barnstable, July 26.—Miss Marion Pomeroy Smith, the Hyannis heiress, who is fighting to the conservator of her property, today sat in the crowded courtroom and heard witnesses tell of her being kissed by Maurice Phimeas, the Cape Cod exporter and fish dealer.

Mrs. Joseph Pomeroy of Craigville testified that she wanted to tell Phineas a wife about his low affair with Miss Smith, but that her husband would not let her. She said her husband told Mrs. Phimeas himself.

Miss Smith is anxious to take the stand and tell her own story. She won her fight in Hartford, Ct., to have her conservator removed, and is now fighting to have her husband's name cleared.

Mr. Atwood, the police say, declared soon after his arrest that he shot Dr. Harris because the latter had betrayed him in the most promising public of his life.

DEAD GIRL FOUND IN POND

Identification Believed Near Strange Case of Death of Girl Found in Pond at Oak Bluffs

The body of the young woman that was found in a pond at Oak Bluffs may be that of Henrietta McCloud of Dorchester.

A sister started for Oak Bluffs this afternoon to view the body. It is believed that the girl was employed in the office of Dr. S. L. Lutzpeter, a Dorchester dentist, who is spending the summer at Oak Bluffs.

Until the autopsy is performed it will not be known whether the girl was a victim of murder. The body was badly decomposed and had swollen in the water for several weeks.

She was about thirty-five years old and was dressed in a white shirt, waist, blue stockings and one shoe.

IDEAL HIDING PLACE.
The location of the pond would make it an ideal place for hiding a body. The body was in the far end of the pond, out of the reach of most of the neighbors.

The only clue that throws the slightest light on the mystery is the fact that in Lutzpeter's office he hired a girl who was dismissed after working one week.

COMPLETE OCCUPATION OF POZIERES BY THE AUSTRALIANS

By SIDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, July 26.—After forty-ent hours of savage fighting, the British have succeeded in occupying all of the village of Pozieres on the Somme battle front.

News of the complete capture of Pozieres was contained in the official report issued by the British War Office at noon today.

The Germans, occupying stone houses which had been turned into fortresses, fought stubbornly, but were finally driven out, after the Australians had secured a lodgment in the western part of the village.

Pozieres is about five miles south-west of Baginvalle. It lies at the junction of the Albert-Chaumont and Thiepval-Lencoueville roads.

Western of Pozieres, trench troops captured two German machine gun positions.

The prisoners taken included five officers.

The following is the text of the British War Office report:

"The whole of the village of Pozieres is now in our hands. Westward of the village trenches advanced, capturing two German machine gun positions and prisoners were taken, including five officers. Elsewhere the positions are unchanged."

Fighting has continued, notwithstanding hot rain and mud. At times the artillery duels have raged through thick weather when the targets were obscured by mist.

The Germans, using fresh troops pushed up from other parts of the front, have made strong counter-attacks, but these were invariably repulsed.

WAR SUMMARY

While the great artillery battle continues around Verdun, the French War Office announces today another "full has settled down upon that section of the Somme front held by the French."

The British War Office, on the other hand, tells of the occupation by General Haig's troops of "all of the village of Pozieres" on the Somme front. This was accomplished, according to London, after seventy-two hours of fighting. It was to be expected that the German resistance would be stubborn. Credit for the new advance is given to the Australian troops, who won a hold in the western part of the village.

Petrograd tells us that the Grand Duke has again donated those seven-league boots, penetrating 200 miles into Turkish territory. An official Petrograd announcement declares the Russians have taken Erzincan, 100 miles south of Trebizond, and another step in their progress towards Constantinople.

Further progress for the Czar along the northeastern frontier of Galicia is described by Petrograd. The city of Brody, on the Galician frontier and on the railway line to Lemberg, is reported partly encircled by the Russians.

The Italians tell of new gains in the difficult fighting along their line of mountain summits. Around Salorno, Italian airmen have been active, bombing Bulgarian camps in both Greece and Serbia.

Austrians Fail to Oust Italians.
By International News Service.
Rome, July 26.—Attempts by the Austro-Hungarians to recapture the summit of Monte Cimone were all repulsed by the Italians, according to the official report issued by the War Office today. It follows:

"In the Lazzarini valley and Borsello region our artillery effectively shelled enemy positions on the march. On the Postia-Astoria line on Monday night we repelled two violent counter-attacks against the summit of Monte Cimone. The enemy is still working to dislodge the enemy from the wooded district near the summit of Monte Cimone."

"On the Astoria plateau we are continuing our position. The enemy is still working to dislodge the enemy from the wooded district near the summit of Monte Cimone."

"The enemy shelled villages in the upper Degano valley, killing civilians. The Austro-Hungarians are now in possession of the Italian line. The enemy is still working to dislodge the enemy from the wooded district near the summit of Monte Cimone."

BLACKLIST NOT AIMED AT U. S., BRITISH SAY

By International News Service.
Washington, July 26.—President Wilson has decided to delay his announcement of the policy of this government regarding the British trade blacklist.

Another development announced by the State Department was that Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British Ambassador, had made a partial explanation of the scope of the blacklist.

The British Ambassador informed the State Department that the blacklist was not directed against neutral countries, but that its purpose was to prevent British capital and credit from being used to support the enemy, and that in general there was no intention that the blacklist should affect existing contracts.

Observers were quick to see a connection between the explanation and the announced decision to withhold announcement of the policy of this government, but that the delay was influenced by the fact that the administration would not be influenced by such explanations.

On the face of the assurance by Great Britain that its blacklist is not aimed at neutrals, taken away one of the chief grounds for action by the United States, but it is certain that the government will not accept this assurance, since there is abundant evidence that the operation of the blacklist, while it may not be aimed at neutrals, is aimed at Americans indirectly.

Statements given by the British Ambassador were in response to a question regarding the policy of the State Department.

BOYCOTT OPPRESSIVE.
The objection by the British Ambassador, however, does not touch what officials believe is the basic wrong of the blacklist.

This is the alleged action of the British government in ordering its own steamships and coaling stations to refuse to receive cargoes to or from blacklisted firms.

Not only have neutral ships faced refusal to take on cargo, but also at British ports if they carried cargoes from blacklisted firms. Exporters have charged, but through British influence, the government has refused to receive cargoes from blacklisted firms.

The State Department has taken up the question of the blacklist. It has been dealing with individual firms and not with the blacklist as a whole. The State Department has taken up the question of the blacklist. It has been dealing with individual firms and not with the blacklist as a whole.

GAIN FOR BRITISH

in the particular raised as to affecting the main issue. It was stated that the United States will consider the matter with grave concern.

There were evidences, however, that Great Britain herself realized she has gone too far in extending the blacklist to American firms in a manner that is violative of neutral rights.

It was intimated today that the British Embassy within a few days would make an official statement, assuring the people of the United States that the blacklist was not designed to interfere with American trade or against American citizens.

Hughes to Stop Cubs Tinker to Use Kelly

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

The Braves and Cubs buckle up again today, and last week as C. T. Stallings saw fit to cross the pickers yesterday, it behooves anyone to attempt a pitching selection for the game. Any one of the left-handers are ready. Of the right-handers Ed. Rubeck is better today than any of the others, though possibly Tom Hughes might go to the fray.

Just who Tinker would use is more or less of a mystery, as the Cub manager isn't given to spreading broadcast his opinions on what is to come. Almost any of his men are ready, with Packard, Vaughn and McConnell heading the list. Should Stallings finally decide to use a southpaw, Boston fans will have an opportunity to glimpse Joe Kelly, another of the Cub phenoms in action.

STALLINGS UPSET

Manager Stallings, who quit Braves Field yesterday considerably upset as a result of the loss of the game, hadn't calmed a bit when he arose today. He still considers that the Braves were robbed of the decision yesterday and is earnestly praying that President Tanager sees fit to give them the best end of the protest. The Braves consider that they are entitled to that best end and seek only it.

"I'll bet a suit of clothes with any man living," said Stallings, "that Eason was wrong on that play. I've been in baseball for years and never yet have I seen a baserunner get more than two bases on a live throw that brought up in the dugout. The game is protested and I only hope that the powers that be see the matter in the right light."

"I told Eason after the game that I intended protesting the decision. I think I was right, and everybody who spoke to me regarding the matter agreed with me. It is not where the Braves are entitled to be charged with a game loss. If we are then I fail to understand the rules under which baseball is played today in the National League."

AGREES WITH STALLINGS

President Haughton wasn't available early today but it is a safe bet that he entertains an opinion which runs along lines similar to that held by Stallings. While Haughton hasn't had Stallings' baseball experience he has, nevertheless, had enough to distinguish right from wrong. It was his duty to protest and it is his duty to see that the protest gets the fullest consideration from President Tanager and all else concerned. If the Tanager head doesn't decide favorably he should appeal to the board of directors and carry the matter through as far as he can.

EVERS MAY ESCAPE

As regarding Evers the writer cannot see how the Trojan will draw a suspension if Mal Eason doesn't win it right. That is to say, if Eason makes an honest report Evers should not be suspended. Eason admitted, according to one who knows, that he saw Zelder stop on Evers' foot before the latter made any effort to defend himself.

Consequently it is hard to see how the head of the National, or any other league for that matter, could find a man at fault for defending himself. The writer isn't attempting to defend Evers for being put out of the game. While I don't think Eason's judgment was right on the strike he called I don't attempt to criticize him for ejecting Trojans. He may have had orders to do just such a thing at the slightest provocation.

The Braves looked good in yesterday's contest aside from the sixth inning. They couldn't hit for power and consequently couldn't score runs. Eason worked a nice game, but he had but four scattered blows and at best all the Braves should have had was a run in the sixth. They then retreated that they are ever alert and alive by getting the additional run over in that frame.

This morning they engaged in practice at Braves Field, and chief among ideas Stallings attempted to instill them was the one which alleges that hits are necessary in order to win games. The boys had batting practice in abundance. In time came out of ten they'll field all right.

Today is another day and Stallings is pointing toward winning the game. Meanwhile he will be sure that the moguls to decide just who really won yesterday's contest. Likewise is praying that Tanager orders a play-off or the protested contest. The one today is as usual, at 3:15.

FOLWELL IS HOPING FOR WINNER AT PENN

Philadelphia, July 26.—Bob Folwell, who will coach the Pennsylvania gridders, warning in the Fall, was in town today "looking over the situation."

"I've got all I can learn," said Folwell, "and I'm mighty likely looking for a winner to present themselves when we begin practice at Langhorne, Pa., September 11. If I can get some good material, I feel sure we will be able to put Penn back upon the foot ball map."

Pain in Back

For 40 years—Winard's Liniment has been successfully used for removing back ache. It is a delightful, creamy, antiseptic liniment, giving almost instant relief when it is applied. Your druggist will recommend it. Don't suffer, for Winard's stops pain.

James W. Ready for Duel with Harry J. S.

Northampton, July 26.—The card for the second day of the Short Ship Circuit season here comprises three $100 stakes. The Connecticut River Stock Farm event for 213 trotters, will bring together Herman Tyson's Harry J. S. and James W.

James W. has fully recovered from his recent lameness which attacked him so suddenly at the Springfield meeting. Dave Warran is his new trainer and driver and the old horse isn't fit as a fiddle.

Joe Wood Fails to Keep Date with Lannin

Cleveland, July 26.—President J. J. Lannin of the Red Sox arrived on scheduled time for his engagement with Joe Wood, but the once-upon-a-time renowned boxer failed to put in an appearance.

Wood was expected here yesterday from his home at Parker's Glen, Pa., to show Manager Carrigan he is every bit as good as ever; also to talk terms with Mr. Lannin as a salary for the rest of the season.

Not only did Wood fail to arrive, but he was not even heard from.

McLoughlin Plans Getting Away for East Next Week

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Manager E. McLoughlin, the tennis star, will leave here for the East next week.

He will stop off at Chicago and will pair up with Ward Dawson in the preliminary National doubles championship game.

The winning team in Chicago will meet the champion first-class Johnston combination in Forest Hills, N. Y., in August.

However, both Lannin and Carrigan are confident he will put in an appearance today.

Leon Didier in Crack Field at Oval Tonight

Leon Didier, the French Flyer, will get back into the saddle tonight at the Revere cycle track, where he is down to meet Clarence Carman, Victor Linart and Georges Colombato in a fifty-mile motor-paced race.

Didier was badly shaken up when he fell from his wheel at the beach oval last Saturday night, but he came out of the smashup much better than was expected.

Leonard Rules a 6 to 5 Choice Over Welsh

New York, July 26.—Benny Leonard is a 6 to 5 favorite over Freddie Welsh in today's warping on their ten-round bout Friday night in Brooklyn.

While Leonard was putting on the finishing touches to his condition in his training camp up in the mountains of northern New York, Welsh completed another strenuous day in the city.

The promoters of the bout claim that the advance sale of tickets now totals close to $10,000 and they are confident the receipts will be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

DEER BEER PAID FOR CONCRETE

Providence, July 26.—Superintendent of Streets Jesse J. Prescott today came to the defense of the city concrete mixer, who were accused of swamping concrete for beer from a neighboring brewery. While admitting four of the men in the "concrete bank" had undoubtedly had something to drink, he denied that any of the city's concrete had gone into the brewery.

"Yesterday," he said, "I changed the crew that has been working on the concrete bank. I did this because I found that some of the men were intoxicated on Monday. One of the crew, who was sober, was so ashamed of his mates that he refused to work with them."

"I don't believe that anyone in charge of the brewery would allow such exchange to take place. From what I can learn, the men had a bottle of whiskey that they brought to work."

According to the report, the men employed by the concrete mixer had swamped pairs of concrete for freshly brewed beer. The brewery which was said to figure in the transaction is situated close by where the men were working.

It is further rumored that the swamping of concrete for the beer has resulted in the brewery having a new concrete floor. Trades in the two commodities are reported to have been going on for two years.

When the matter was called to the attention of Alderman Wood he took an automobile trip to where the men were at work.

When the concrete mixer were asked to explain the matter they quit their jobs. Wood says he will close up the "concrete bank."

HOLD BAY STATE BOY AS SPY IN CANADA

Syracuse, July 26.—Ernst Beets, a native of Germany, who has resided in this city for two years, has been arrested in Queenstown, Canada, on suspicion that he is a spy.

After an examination by Magistrate Fraser at Niagara Falls, Ont., Beets was turned back to the military authorities for further questioning. The chief informant officer will pass upon his case. The military authorities deny to say anything about military maps they claim to have found on his person.

He was taken from under a house, where he was hiding. He denies that he was spying, saying that he had crossed the bridge into Canada and wandered down into Niagara. One of the men who returned the cars had crossed running and he had set out on foot for Queenstown, hiding in the house simply because he wanted to avoid getting into trouble with the soldiers.

Beets lived in this city with the family of Ray, John Nelson, pastor of the John Street Congregational Church. Mrs. Nelson said Beets left Saturday, July 15, to go on his vacation, intending to return July 23. Beets is employed as a bookkeeper by the Bosch Magneto Company of this city, where he has been working for more than a year.

Mrs. Nelson said he was twenty-three or twenty-four years old and of German extraction and appearance. She expressed regret on learning he had been arrested and said the young man had only lived in this country two or three years and probably had insufficient time in which to get naturalization papers.

According to Mrs. Nelson, Beets was very proficient in the English language. He told her he learned English in Germany. He was affiliated with the local branch of the Turnverein.

Motor Notes.

By J. C. KERRISON.

Forty-three Saxon six motor cars, racing in relay, established a new transcontinental record when the last car reached San Francisco at 4:10 Saturday morning, just six days, eleven hours and ten minutes after leaving New York city. This record from coast to coast was made, carrying a message from Mayor Mitchell of New York to Mayor Dool of San Francisco over the proposed Lincoln Highway route. An official observer started with the first Saxon car which left New York at 10:25 a. m. Saturday, July 15, and travelled every foot of the long journey, changing from car to car as the relay progressed. These Saxon six motor cars, driven by regular Saxon drivers, gave a remarkable demonstration of endurance over every conceivable kind of road.

Great interest among car owners in the National Touring Week which commenced July 14 reported by George Lawrence of the Kinrosscar. "The week," he said, "promises to give us a great number of short vacations, but the main thing is to have a transcontinental motor trip. Advocates of the wide-open car in summer will obtain many enthusiastic converts National Touring Week. It will then be brought more convincingly to mind than ever that the 'top-down movement' is based on common sense."

Lack of interest and funds has compelled the abandonment of the State National Road again this year. The $10,000 needed to stage the event proved most difficult to obtain, although State officials offered to provide one-half of the amount. If the Chicago Automobile Club succeeded in raising the other half, $10,000 by selling the cars last year.

A bill is now before the State Legislature of Louisiana providing for $15,000,000 for road improvement. Its passage will give a stimulating effect in the promotion of the Jefferson Highway from New Orleans north to Winnipeg.

USE TUB TO CARRY STOLEN GASOLINE

Nashua, N. H., July 26.—Somebody drained dry the gasoline tank of a four-cylinder city indicator every C. Eaton, outside his garage, on Parkside street. Heavy gallons of the fluid were being carried away in the tub, the marks of which were to be seen in the mud.
